Thu, 26 Jan 2010

Mac compatible Powered 2.1 speaker system with subwoofer

Nick Spence

The 'Made for iPod' Divo remotely controls and recharges your iPhone and iPod and syncs content with iTunes.

Question of the day!

Will you be buying the iPad?

Mark Hattersley
Editor at CNET

Yes No

Stereo phono and 3.5mm inputs also mean the Divo will work with the majority of computers and televisions promising maximum stereo fidelity and rich bass from the supplied subwoofer.

The Divo's mini-tower speakers can be situated at a distance from the separate subwoofer for wide stereo separation insists IXOS. The result is more realistic music reproduction and a much wider sound field, than with one-box iPod docking speakers or one-box systems.

The Divo system comes with award-winning IXOS cables in the box, with two lengths of speaker cable - 4.5m and 0.5m - provided as standard.

The stylish £229.99 system is compatible with all stereo audio sources along with the iPhone, iPod touch, iPod classic, iPod video and iPod nano.

Full details can be found at a new dedicated website: www.ixos.co.uk/Divo
